

Authorities pinning conviction hopes on death bullet

by Dan Barber

Hopes of Hancock and Harrison County law enforcement agencies for a vital clue into the kidnapping death of Mary Ann Farve, a 16-year-old Bay St. Louis girl, increased Monday after x-rays of the girl's skull recovered last Sunday along with other skeletal remains in a wooded area near Discovery Bay revealed that the small calibre bullet which killed the girl was still lodged in the skull.

Harrison County Sheriff Howard L. Hobbs said Tuesday that officers are awaiting a ballistic report from the FBI's crime lab in Washington, D. C. as well as a report on all other physical evidence found where the body was discovered.

The girl, who disappeared from an area close to her home last April 22, was the subject of an intense search by the Hancock County Sheriff's Department and the Federal Bureau of Investigation for nearly two months after parents and friends suspected kidnapping.

Her skeletal remains were discovered last Sunday by two hunters from Gulfport who contacted the sheriff's department of Harrison County.

Identification of the girl was made by Bay St. Louis dentist N. G. Elchos from dental records. Particles of clothing were also recovered which matched the description of clothing worn by the young girl when she was last seen.

Chief investigator, Larkin Smith of the Harrison County Sheriff's Department said that he felt jurisdiction of the case would not move from Hancock County where the girl was abducted to Harrison County where the murder occurred.

The girl disappeared April 22 after escorting a younger sister part of the way to school. The chain on her bicycle broke and the younger girl continued on to school by herself.

Officials were notified after the girl failed to return home. Her bicycle was located after that day near an empty lot on Boardman Avenue in Bay St. Louis.

The hunters who discovered the remains were identified as Fordie Griffith and James Wilson, both of Gulfport. They were hunting for rabbits a short distance north of Arcadia Road on undeveloped land owned by Discovery Bay when they made the discovery late Sunday afternoon.

Dr. Elchos said he was able to make positive identification through charts showing dental work on the girl Jan. 5, 1973.

Hancock County Sheriff Sylvan Ladner said that the area where the body was found Sunday was only about four miles from an area that was the subject of a search by sheriff and FBI agents last August after an anonymous tip. Ladner said that both areas were formerly part of the old Sandover estate.

The sheriff said that the area where the body was found had been posted for no hunting or trespassing approximately one year ago—or approximately two months before Mary Ann disappeared—by Discovery Bay.

Authorities said Tuesday that they have a suspect in the case but declined to release any names until all information is collected in the case.

Authorities released a composite picture of a male suspect last April after several residents in the neighborhood of the Farve home gave officers a description of a young black male seen cruising in the area the day the girl disappeared. No arrests have ever been made in the case.

Bay St. Louis Police Chief Billy Carbonette said Wednesday that a memorial fund was being established at the Hancock Bank for the family of Mary Ann Farve, whose body was found Sunday in a wooded section of Harrison County near Discovery Bay by two hunters. The 16-year-old girl had disappeared last April 22 after last being seen riding her bicycle to a neighborhood store.

EPA wants well system phased out

by David Pierson

To discourage the long-term use of deep-well injection systems, the Environmental Protection Agency will send back to the Mississippi Air and Water Pollution Control Commission (MAWPCC) its permit for the proposed DuPont pigments plant in DeLisle.

The MAWPCC had voted just last week to approve the DuPont permit which would govern the deep-well injection of toxic wastes and the average daily discharge of 2.1 million gallons of diluted salts into the Bay of St. Louis.

Paul Traina, director of the regional enforcement division in Atlanta, said Wednesday that the EPA was not denying the permit. "We just want it understood," he said, "that the company does not have the use of deep wells forever."

The EPA, Traina said, has already contacted the MAWPCC and been assured that the state agency will make the necessary addition which would require DuPont to change over from the deep-well injection system to an EPA-approved waste treatment facility when the EPA develops the guidelines. The national guidelines, Traina said, would give DuPont 42 months to construct the facility. Traina said that the national guidelines for the waste treatment of titanium dioxide plants will probably be made this summer.

Under the EPA plan, Traina said, the state would apply discharge limitations allowing waste now intended for the well system to flow into the Bay of St. Louis. Traina said DuPont would have to meet the EPA standards if it accepted the permit.

Traina said that the EPA had no objection to the part of the permit dealing with the discharge of diluted salts into the Bay.

DuPont officials said they were surprised by the EPA's ruling. No mention was made if the company would accept the modified permit.

In a related matter, the state Marine Resources Council, which last week delayed issuing its permit to DuPont, has arranged to meet with representatives of DuPont and the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory (GCRL) Tuesday in Jackson for the purpose of discussing the plant's effects on the flora and fauna. J. E. Thomas, chairman of the council, said that the council did not delay its approval for any specific reason. "The council," he said, "just felt it should be assured of the effects on the flora and the fauna."

The council, Thomas said, was interested in three aspects of the effluent: its thermal effect in the mixing zone, the actual make-up of the effluent and its effects, and the materials that might be involved in a plant malfunction.

Thomas differentiated between his council and the MAWPCC by saying that the MAWPCC governs water quality as it affects human life. The Resources council, he said, governs the coastal wetlands and the water bottoms, including the flora and fauna.

If the council felt it would "serve a higher public interest," said Thomas, it might approve the DuPont permit, even if there was evidence that showed the effluent would damage the water bottom or the marine life.

Larry Kniffin, projects manager for DuPont's titanium dioxide facilities, was in Gulfport Tuesday and said that there was not enough economic inducement for DuPont to consider bargaining. Opponents to the DeLisle site have charged that DuPont plans to eventually dredge the bay for barging purposes. But Kniffin said Tuesday, "A barge-load a day is not economic inducement enough to barge." He would not, however, rule out the option to barge if the Bay was one day barged.

Area car dealers are hoping for a better year in 1975 in spite of gloomy economic predictions. New cash rebates offered by most major car manufacturers should stimulate new interest. See story on page 2.

Murder indictments are returned by grand jury

Indictments returned by the January term of the Hancock County Grand Jury Friday included two charges of murder, one charge of aggravated assault, one charge of rape, one charge of grand larceny, one charge of burglary and larceny, one charge of receiving stolen property, three charges of possession of a controlled substance, one charge of escaping jail, and three charges of desertion.

Murder indictments were returned against Jimmy Ray Fine in connection with the death of his wife, Sharon, on Dec. 14, 1974 and against Russell Nichols for the shooting death of Waveland auxiliary policeman Joe Jushaway at a Bay St. Louis lounge last Dec. 21, 1974.

Donald Wallace and Larry R. Smith were indicted for burglary and larceny for the Nov. 15, 1974 break-in at the A-1 T.V. and Home Center, Inc. on Highway 90 in which two color television sets were taken.

Indictments were returned against Mark Edward Bobins, Joan Marie Bobins, and Danny Ross Bennett for possession of a controlled substance, namely 3,144.6 grams of marijuana, with intent to deliver or sell last Aug. 4, 1974.

Wilbur J. Manuel Jr., Benjamin E. Leonardi, Tracy V. Roberts, and Raymond N. Garrett, III were also indicted for possession of a controlled substance Jan. 4, namely three bags and 12 unroll packets of phenylcyclopropylamine. In a third drug charge, William Arnold Kolstad was charged with possession of 56.5 grams of marijuana.

On July 28, 1974, Eloy Bates was indicted for grand larceny following charges he stole a pickup truck from one Burton N. Gibson last Nov. 19, 1974.

Edward Thurmond was indicted on charges of receiving stolen property. The grand jury returned an indictment against Bruce S. Stewart for unlawful flight from jail for his escape from the Hancock County Jail last Oct. 20, 1974 while awaiting trial on charges of burglary and larceny.

An indictment of aggravated assault was returned against Clarence H. Hall for an incident last Nov. 28, 1974 against Henry Paul Jordan.

Two enter not guilty plea to murder

Two defendants charged with murder entered pleas of not guilty before Judge Leslie B. Grant at the January session of the Hancock County Circuit Court. Russell Nichols, charged with the Dec. 21 murder of Waveland policeman Joseph Jushaway entered a plea of not guilty. Nichols, who is represented by local attorney Walter Gex, will remain in custody at Gulfport until his trial July 28.

Jimmy Ray Fine, who is charged with the murder of his wife, also entered a plea of not guilty. Attorney Boyce Hollenman and Jim Rose are representing Fine. Trial was set for July 21.

Judgement was passed in three cases by presiding Judge Leslie B. Grant. O.

Supervisors discuss derailment

The recent derailment of a Louisville and Nashville train carrying dangerous chemicals was the major topic for discussion at Tuesday's meeting of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors. The train, which derailed Monday, Jan. 13, caused the evacuation of Lakeshore residents for several days while the danger of the chemical was neutralized, and one of those evacuated brought the problem to the board.

Mrs. Mary Caillier of Lakeshore reminded the board that a similar incident had occurred in November in the same area, and she demanded some action by county officials.

"What would have happened if the last derailment had taken place in a more populated area?" she asked. "You had better think about it because it could happen again anytime. Liquid gas has an impact that could wipe out everything within three miles."

Beat One Supervisor Jerry Ladner said that future accidents could probably be decreased if a 30 mph speed limit passed by the board was enforced. He suggested the board also meet with railroad officials and go out to inspect the track for safety.

"We should walk the track with the L&N officials and then you would see what a state of disrepair those tracks are in," he said.

The Board of Supervisors voted to try to set up a meeting with railroad officials Feb. 3. They also called upon Sheriff Sylvan Ladner to enforce the resolution passed in November setting the speed limit at 30 mph.

Mrs. Caillier promised that the residents of Ansley, Lakeshore and Clermont Harbor would support the board in its action, but that if conditions did not improve, the mothers in the area would lie down across the tracks to get something done.

guilty to a charge of escaping from jail; trial is set for July 27. And Clarence H. Hall pled not guilty to a charge of aggravated assault; trial is set for July 24.

Five cases were passed to the next session of the grand jury. They were the cases of Russell Lamar Davis, Felix Albert, Jr. and Gerald Mauffray, James Granger and Larry Saltzman Albert Guillot, and William Dwight Hendricks.

The case of Gerald Mauffray, who is charged with possession of a controlled substance, was continued by agreement.

Finally, Tracy Roberts and Raymond Garrett III pled not guilty to charges of possession. Robert's trial is set for July 18 and Garrett's for July 22.

In other business, Wilson Webre, Director of the Port and Harbor Commission, introduced a resolution for a change order to the Commission's contract T. L. James to clear a tract of land at the south end of the airport. The contract involves removing trees on approximately 19 acres of land at a cost of $7,600 to achieve a 34 to 1 glide slope ratio. The project will be completed under the ADAP program which provides 75 percent of the funding.

Charles Carter is the new Civil Defense Director effective immediately by a vote of the board. A motion by Jerry Ladner in the morning session to approve the nomination failed to receive a second, but in the afternoon session the motion was reintroduced and seconded by Bully Zengarling. Carter replaces Don McIntyre who resigned his position to accept a position with General Electric at the NASA test facility.

The board voted to seek county engineer Larry Seal to work up an application for Emergency Relief Funds for beach road rail walks, pressure grouts and slabs in Beat Four.

Funds were approved for planting native oak, pine and magnolia trees as part of the Highway Beautification Program for Arbor Day, Feb. 14. The board authorized $250 for the trees to be planted from the Waveland Hospitality station to Bay Bridge. Mrs. Dan Russell, Civic Development Chairman, is in charge of the project. Tree planting ceremonies will be held sometime in February.

The Hancock County Bar Association passed a formal resolution commending the board of supervisors for renovating the courtroom and facilities. The resolution was accepted by the board and made a part of the minutes.

Smoking ruins

The home of Charles Kasser at the corner of Commission and Daughtery Roads in north Long Beach was totally destroyed by fire late Sunday night. An investigation as to cause was still being conducted late this week. The fire reportedly started near the center of the home. The family was not home at the time of the blaze.

Fire destroys Long Beach home

High gusty winds and a water shortage hampered firemen's attempts Sunday to save a brick home north of Long Beach that was totally destroyed by fire.

By the time the Long Beach Fire Department responded to the 11:15 p.m. call with two engines and one rescue unit, said a fire department spokesman, the home of Charles Kasser, Rt. 1, Box 174 C Long Beach, was already engulfed in flames and the fire was through the roof. No one was in the house at the time.

The area was under a tornado watch at the time of the fire, and, to further frustrate attempts, the engines, which can hold only 500 gallons each, ran out of water while the firemen were trying to knock down the blaze. One truck was sent to the plug at North Daughtery Park to refill, but by the time it returned it was too late.

Fireman David Dorris, the only one to receive injuries, was treated for minor burns to the hands.

According to Fire Chief Pete Clegg, the fire started near the center of the house. The cause is still under investigation.

"College Night"

Bay Senior High School students were able to look over various college programs at the fifth annual College Night last Wednesday, Jan. 15. The Guidance department and the National Honor Society sponsored the program which began with an address by Superintendent of Bay St. Louis public schools, J. D. McCulloch and Guidance Counselor, Gibson Carter. The students then chose the college representatives with which they would like to visit. Nineteen public and private universities from Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana were represented.

Port and Harbor files suit

The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission filed suit Tuesday against the International Paper Company petitioning for condemnation of 228 acres owned by the company.

The land in question lies adjacent to the Port Bienville Industrial Park Site and the commission wants the land for a multi-million dollar chemical plant to be built by the Borg Warner Corporation.

The Commission claims in the suit that offers were made by their attorneys, Robert L. Genin, Jr. and Gerald C. Gex, to purchase the land from International Paper, but the parties were unable to come to an agreement on the price.

"It has been determined that it is necessary that the property involved herein be obtained for the purpose of industrial growth, in order to create employment and revenues for Hancock County, Mississippi," the suit reads.

The suit further states that the property was declared to be necessary for the public use by the Port and Harbor Commission Jan. 2. The order was certified Jan. 6 by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

If the Port and Harbor Commission wins the suit, it will gain the property now held by International Paper but not any oil, gas or other minerals on the property. International Paper would have the right to drill directionally from locations on their holdings.

St. Augustine's Seminary

We are sorry, but due to the fire that destroyed our paper shed, we will have to discontinue handling waste paper. We would like to thank all those who have helped on this project over the years.

Hancock Grand Jury issues report

The January term of the Hancock County Grand Jury returned its report to Circuit Court Judge Leslie B. Grant Friday after five days of hearing testimony and deliberations.

The grand jury examined 31 witnesses, considered 23 cases, and returned 14 indictments. In addition the body issued the following comments on the facilities listed below:

HANCOCK GENERAL HOSPITAL

We have found that the Hancock General Hospital is in good condition and that the Administrator, Mrs. Mona Santiago, was most helpful in pointing out the most recent improvements of the hospital facilities.

HANCOCK COUNTY HOME FOR THE AGED

We have visited the County Home and found that the premises are well kept, very clean and comfortable and extremely cheerful and happy, and we wish to commend Mrs. Fricke on a job well done.

STENNIS FIELD

We the Grand Jury have visited Stennis Field and find it to be in the best condition and well-managed. We understand that current improvements will be operational by the end of January, 1975, and be able to handle all type aircraft.

PORT & HARBOR

We visited as a motorcade and found great potential and also understand that public relations is in progress for new installations; we wish them great success.

JAIL & YOUTH DETENTION CENTER

We have found many improvements in the maintenance and care of the Courthouse and connecting installations. We also found that recommendations of the previous Grand Jury have been completed.

SHERIFF'S OFFICE

We inspected above said office and found it to be neat and in an excellent condition. We, the Grand Jury of Hancock County, January 1975, do believe that if the Sheriff's Office was granted a 25 percent increase in his yearly budget, that he would afford the county much more than a 25 percent increase in Police protection and performance. We also believe with his allotted budget, he and his assistants have done a most commendable service to the community.

We wish to give thanks to Chancery Clerk, John D. Rutherford, for his well-kept records and his presentation of same to us and may we commend his staff and associates for helping him obtain such completed records.

We commend Circuit Clerk, Henry Otis and his staff for the fine job they have done in preparing the docket and in securing the necessary witness during our deliberations.

We wish to commend Waveland Police Department, and in particular, Patrolman Terry Holmes for the fine presentation that he gave the body on some very difficult cases which presentation helped make our job easier.

We would like to suggest to the Bay St. Louis Police Department to be more thorough in their investigation of cases and presentation of same.

COURTHOUSE INSPECTION

We would like to commend the Board of Supervisors for having completed the renovation of the Courthouse which includes the air conditioner and heating facilities which we have found to be a real asset to our county with a modern up-to-date courtroom, and with the new facilities provided for the Grand Juries and other facilities which have received vast improvements. We would also like to commend Sheriff Ladner for an excellent job he is doing in maintaining the Courthouse.

We wish to commend Mr. Albert Necaise, District Attorney, and his assistant John C. Johnson, and County Attorney, J. P. Compretta, for their fine assistance during our deliberations.

We, the Grand Jury, wish to thank Your Honor for the charge and instructions given to us when empaneled and for the additional consultation tendered at our request. We have enjoyed our tenure as members of the Grand Jury, and found the experience rewarding and enlightening. And Now, having completed our labors, we respectfully ask to stand finally discharged upon this date, the 17th day of January, 1975.

Respectfully submitted,

State body issues flood brochure

Brochures designed to make the public more aware of flood prone areas in Hancock County and assistance available to flood victims are being prepared by Southern Mississippi Planning and Development District Assistant Planner, Ken Jones.

The brochures are being prepared as part of a technical assistance program funded in the amount of $23,000 by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The project was funded by HUD after flood waters ravaged south Mississippi last spring causing millions of dollars in damage and leaving thousands homeless. The flood information brochures are being prepared for thirteen of the District's fifteen counties on a county-by-county basis.

Maps will be included showing flood prone areas in Hancock County and also flood prone areas in major municipalities within the county.

Pertinent information on previous flooding in the area is included as well as a listing of local emergency telephone numbers and electronic media broadcasting emergency information.

Types of assistance available from various agencies to flood victims are shown in the document along with information on federally subsidized flood insurance.

Jones, project planner, said, "Our purpose is to publish a document that will be of significant value to an individual before and after a flood situation."

"We hope that people will place the brochure in safe keeping so if they ever need it, they will have the necessary information," Jones added.

Boards plans against vandals and litter

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors Tuesday morning unanimously voted to publish a resolution declaring their bicentennial project for the county — an all out effort to promote an anti-litter and anti-vandalism campaign.

The decision was made following a brief appeal made by Mrs. Nunez C. (Joe) Pilet, representing the Gulf Coast Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mrs. Pilet asked that every effort be made on a county-wide basis to apprehend those persons who deface property, are guilty of wanton destruction of property, or who litter public property with trash and cans.

This offense is in violation of State Laws as well as our local ordinances," Mrs. Pilet said.

First to express support of the request was Beat One Supervisor Jerry Lader who said, "I think this is a matter requiring positive and immediate action."

The board voted unanimously to pass the resolution.

Farve makes Dean's list

Larry Anthony Farve of Bay St. Louis has made the Dean's List at the University of Southern Mississippi-Gulf Park during the fall quarter, Gwinn Naderhoff, director of records and admissions, announced.

In order to make the Dean's List, a student has to make at least a grade point average of 3.25 on a 4.0 system on six semester hours of work.

Aldermen uphold Alley's suspension

The Pass Christian board of aldermen Tuesday voted unanimously to uphold Police Chief Edward Alley's indefinite suspension of Harold Henderson, chief detective, for conduct unbecoming an officer. Mayor pro tempore Charles Logan presided at the five-minute emergency meeting in place of Mayor Steve Saucier who is in Jackson.

Alley said his action resulted from incidents in which Henderson's domestic problems interfered with his duties as chief investigator. Henderson had received several warnings for similar incidents, Alley said.

If an appeal is successful, officials said, Henderson would be reinstated and be awarded back pay. If the appeal fails, he will be permanently dismissed.

Alley said that he will probably meet Monday with the city's civil service commission which must also approve the action before the action is official.

Henderson, 44, has been with the police department since January 1970. Two years ago he was appointed chief investigator.

Diamondhead urges homebuilding

The Diamondhead Corporation, a land developing corporation with resort communities in seven southern states including a 7600 acre development in Hancock County, announced last week that its headquarters would be moved from Mountaintop, New Jersey to New Orleans offices in Executive Square on the west bank. At the same time the President of the Corporation, William D. Bru, revealed a new direction in the project emphasizing community development over land sale.

"We need to stimulate more homebuilding in the area," Bru said. "The emphasis will be toward a more local outlook with the final goal being an all-around community in Diamondhead."

Although Diamondhead has shown a substantial total in land sales of $38 million for 1974, there are only about 100 homes to date in the project. Bru said that his most immediate goal is to encourage local contractors to build homes in the area. He feels that this goal is possible because, he said, interest rates will probably be lower next year and the housing industry will be improving.

"We want to make Diamondhead a more attractive place to live," the president said. "In the past people have made land purchases as investments. Now we are going to put most of our efforts toward land purchase for the purpose of homebuilding." Diamondhead plans no more condominiums at this time, Bru said, as further proof that the corporation is turning the emphasis toward community development.

Other projects have been started in Diamondhead to make it more attractive as a residential area. The corporation is building a new $350,000 yacht club which will be in operation by April, and a new tennis complex called Tennis World will be completed by the end of the year.

TREMENDOUS SAVINGS...

By F. M. Kyle, Jr.
Gulf Coast District Manager

There's an automatic tax savings for telephone customers again this year. On January 1, the federal excise tax on telephone service was reduced from 8% to 7%. These taxes, which are collected by South Central Bell but passed directly on to the federal government, were first imposed as a temporary revenue measure during World War II. This is the third annual reduction under the Excise, Estate, and Gift Tax Adjustment Act of 1970, which provides that this tax be continually phased out year after year by reducing the tax 1% until it is repealed on January 1, 1982. The new 7% excise tax rate applies to local and long distance service.

Now would be a good time to begin a year-round effort to save in other ways, too. For example, here is a tip to help you save time and energy. Shop by phone. Whatever you're looking for, the Yellow Pages have merchants and their goods and services listed alphabetically for convenience. You can save yourself unnecessary trips around town if you look in the Yellow Pages and call first. Make it one of your New Year's resolutions to use your telephone for all its worth. Here are a few pointers for faster, more convenient phoning:

- Look in the directory for telephone numbers. Use directory assistance only if the number you're looking for is not listed in the book.
- Make a list of frequently called numbers and keep the list near your phone.
- Listen for the dial tone before calling.
- Dial each digit carefully.

Here's a savings tip of a different kind - save a little for the March of Dimes. This month, volunteer workers begin their drive to collect funds for a year-round support of research and various medical service programs to prevent birth defects. Your savings can help more than 200,000 children, who enter the world with a physical or mental defect, lead normal, progressive lives. Remember to save a little for them.

"What happened to the sunshine?!"

Guest Editorial

Stop vandalism now

Monday morning in Bay St. Louis was a perfect day. That is, perfect if one looked UP.

The sky was clear and cloudless. The sun came out brave and strong. The air was crisp and breezy. And the tornado watch had been lifted.

There were among the citizenry many reasons to be thankful and rejoice. That is, if one continued to look UP.

Looking down was different. Disgraceful, depressing and dreary! The sun shed its brilliant rays on beer cans lining both ditch rows and lawns. The breeze in the crisp air picked up all sorts of debris: paper plates and napkins, candy- and gum wrappers, school children's written work -- and more. Much, much more. Things are pretty bad in Bay St. Louis when one looks DOWN.

At eye-level the sights in Bay St. Louis on Monday were even more distasteful and senseless. Homes were being patched in expensive plate glass windows. Willful destruction and defacement of property by vandals. These hoodlums didn't overlook much: Ropes for hoisting our National flags had been cut on both city property and school grounds. Buildings had been showered with eggs. The list could go on...

Yes, things look pretty grim and discouraging when one looks on eye level realities as they exist in Bay St. Louis.

What if a tornado had hit? Citizens would have taken the disaster in stride. There would have been Disaster Area relief. For there isn't much one can do to avert a tornado.

What about willful acts of destruction that claim our tax dollars? There is much that citizens can and should do about that. Vandalism is everybody's business. A vandalism watch is in order.

Parents should know where their children are and what they are doing. Schools should instill good citizenship and be given the authority to wield a bit of good old-fashioned discipline. Churches should strive to regain their vanishing influence toward good morals and ethics.

Public Officers including the mayor, commissioners, police and judges presiding in our courts should be attuned to the responsibilities for which they were elected. Law-breakers should be apprehended, arrested and tried speedily with a little more emphasis on the justice than on the blind charity for offenders.

Together we can do it. We can lick the litterers. We can banish the vandalism. LET'S START NOW!

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

The other evening, a bit fed up with the asinities of modern life, we turned to the journal of the Rev. Joseph Bullen, the first Presbyterian missionary to the Chickasaw Indians in Mississippi, and found it a fascinating account of life among the primitives of nearly two hundred years ago.

After an arduous trip through Virginia and Tennessee, Bullen, a native of Vermont and assigned by the New York missionary society to the almost unknown Delta country, arrived with his young son in Bigtown, a Chickasaw village just west of Tupelo, on May 20, 1799. Finding that the Chickasaw nation was in a very unsettled state, he soon removed to Jefferson County and settled on a small farm and was one of the founders of the first Presbyterian church in the state, Bethel, located on the old Natchez Trace near the now-extinct village of Uniontown, some twenty miles northeast of Natchez. He also taught school, served as pastor of Bethel and several other nearby churches, and kept a voluminous journal in which he described his work among the Indians, their reactions to the new ideas which he introduced, and their relations with the ever-increasing white emigrants who were invading the Delta country. Part of this journal still survives.

Bullen lived a contented and uneventful life at Bethel until 1820 when he made the mistake of endorsing a sizable note for two friends in favor of Winthrop Sargent, first Governor of Mississippi Territory, who died soon afterwards, leaving the note unpaid. Aided by his son, he paid off the note, by selling his land, house, furniture and virtually everything else that he owned. Soon after this he died in March, 1825, and was buried at Bethel beside his wife, the former Hannah Morse. His lengthy journal gives no reason for Governor Sargent's default of his obligation on the note.

Rev. Bullen was liked and respected by his white neighbors, as well as by his Indian charges; a simple and dedicated man of God. Although few of his converts were adults, the Indian children who attended the schools he established and taught were later a great factor in establishing a strong and effective Nation after the tribe moved to Oklahoma.

A white boy who heard Bullen preach at his mission church near the turn of the century later recalled that "he was a tender-hearted man and manifested great affection for his auditors and was more a son of consolation than a son of thunder." The Rev. Bullen lived at a time of great changes in our national life, and his descriptions of the customs and psychology of the Chickasaws tell us a lot about the earliest development of the country in which we are now living.

Veterans Information

Q - I'm a service disabled veteran with Veterans Administration Mortgage Life Insurance coverage on a specially adapted home. How long will I be protected under this coverage?

A - Until the mortgage is paid off, the home is sold, or until you reach age 70.

Q - I was just discharged from military service and plan to study under the GI Bill. How long do I have to complete training?

A - A law enacted in July 1974 extended GI Bill eligibility for veterans from 8 to 10 years after date of discharge. The extension also applies to eligible spouses, widows and widowers of veterans who train under the Veterans Administration Dependents Educational Assistance program.

Dear Editor:

I think it's high time we put this DuPont question into some sort of logical perspective. Let me say that I have the good fortune of having had access to a great deal more information than most other laymen, having attended dozens of meetings, asked hundreds of questions, and even visited a similar Titanium Dioxide Plant to the one proposed.

I must admit if I did NOT have the advantage of this information, I too, would be concerned by some of the statements I have heard. But I urge you to seek the true facts and focus them as they should be.

Let me point out some examples. Statement: DuPont will dump 2 million gallons of "waste" per day into the Bay of St. Louis.

Fact: DuPont will dump between 2 and 4 million gallons per day of "waste" into the Bay. If you call salt water "waste". Realize please, that the overwhelmingly great majority of "waste" is water. It will have sodium chloride (salt) at the rate of about 150 parts per million compared to the Bay's natural content of 250 parts per million.

Statement: The waste will contain portions of zinc, chromium, iron and vanadium.

Fact: The Air & Water Pollution Control Commission has established in the permit granted DuPont certain maximum amounts of an assortment of chemical ingredients - whether or NOT DuPont's waste will include them. For example, there will be no chromium expected in the DuPont waste; but the AWPPC says, fine, but if there ever is, it must never exceed one-tenth part per million and must average .05 parts per million. (By the way, have you ever seen a list of chemicals included in an ordinary pure glass of drinking water? It will scare you). Incidentally, DuPont will introduce nothing into the Bay which is not already naturally there, nor will any compounds be introduced in greater amounts.

Statement: DuPont's waste will be 95 degrees temperature. Good sense says to operate at a safe temperature under that. By the way, there is to be an established "Mixing Zone" some 500 feet by 500 feet beyond which you can notice no change in the water content nor temperature due to the DuPont discharge. And here's a couple of other pieces of useful information - the Bay is about 15 1/2 square miles and its common to find the water over 90 degrees in summertime.

Statement: DuPont should locate in an industrial Park.

Fact: Why? The Deep Well injection would still be there. The discharge of the harmless wastes would still end up in the Bay. But there would be no room for much expansion. There would be no forest to act as a buffer zone. It just wouldn't be practical for them and would be of no advantage to us.

Statement: The area in question is designated as "Recreation".

Fact: That area was recommended as Recreation by the Gulf Regional Planning Commission. However, that recommendation was never approved nor adopted by any Government Body. So it is a mere suggestion.

Statement: DuPont will discharge a tremendous volume of water into the Bay.

Fact: Compare it to the Jordan River and its 700 cubic feet of water per second and the Wolf River at 760 cubic feet per second and it is NOT much - DuPont will discharge 5 cubic feet.

I know of no point which has been made by any opponent to the location of the DuPont Plant which is valid. I know of no question that remains unanswered.

I urge you to give serious thought to what is happening. Bad information is being presented. Unfounded and untrue accusations are being made.

We run the risk of driving away one of the most competent, responsible and reliable corporations in America. I pray to God that this does not happen for lack of true information.

And if we do, what exactly do we lose? Beside the more than $100 million construction cost (about $25 million in Environmental Protection), beside the additional assessment in the School District of many millions of dollars, beside the 16th largest corporation, we lose an annual payroll in the neighborhood of $10 million - plus local purchases by the company of a potential $20 million annually. Add that to the experts' opinions that for each manufacturing job you bring to the community, you add at least one non-manufacturing job. Or the estimate that every dollar spent on developing and operating a manufacturing plant the benefits to the community are conservatively multiplied by seven. The loss becomes so staggeringly great that it is no minor tragedy. Thousands of jobs are before us to gain while the nation faces fantastic losses. Hundreds of opportunities for young people.

All these things we can gain without the sacrifice of the environment.

Please believe me when I say that I am a lover and cherisher of my environment more than I am of my wallet. I fight its destruction more fervently. But likewise I defend the truth and urge its consideration.

Sincerely,

Steve Salmer

Dear Mr. Brown:

As a concerned citizen of Waveland, Miss., I am at a loss to understand how you and other members of your committee could award the DuPont Company a permit to build on the Bay of St. Louis.

Based on the brief session that took place in order to grant this permit it would make one believe that this was a rubber stamp deal.

I am sure you gentlemen are aware that the Bay of St. Louis composes one-seventh of the entire wetlands in the State of Mississippi. It seems to me that your committee should investigate this situation more thoroughly before allowing this Monster to Defecate in the Bay of St. Louis and pollute the entire area.

I am also wondering if you gentlemen are aware that:

1 - Brunswick, Ga. turned down the building of a DuPont Plant in their area. WHY? (It is my understanding it was turned down because the State and City officials would not gamble with their deep well water treatment plant as it might seep into their drinking water table level and pollute it.)

Dear Editor:

I would like to say a few things in reference to Mrs. Alphonse's letter of 2 weeks ago.

As far as children from six to 16-years-old having a hunting license and carrying a gun, this is a problem in every state in the Union. The State of Mississippi, along with most every other state in the U.S., is trying to remedy this problem by implementing Hunter Safety Programs. The Mississippi Game and Fish Commission, in a tremendous joint effort with the National Rifle Association, is doing a wonderful job of setting up a Hunter Safety Program in this state. They are making an extreme effort to train instructors to teach Hunter Safety.

Hunter Safety courses teach Conservation, Game Laws, Gun Safety, and even the history of firearms and conservation since the days of primitive man. The Game and Fish Commission has appropriated thousands of dollars to set up schools, obtain training aids for every instructor, and even to build rifle and pistol ranges. They have even gone as far as to obtain thousands of dollars of insurance to cover any student and qualified instructor on a range. In the near future it is going to be required by state law that before a young person obtains his first hunting license he must have attended and successfully completed a Hunter Safety Course. You can even help yourself.

Thanking you for your space and kindness for this freedom of speech,

I would like to say a few things in reference to Mrs. Alphonse's letter of 2 weeks ago.

2 - I am given to understand that 302 gallons of waste per minute will go into their deep well disposal off the Bay of St. Louis and possibly get into our water table level. Yet, our State, County, and City officials are willing to gamble here.

3 - Why did the States of Louisiana and Texas refuse them a permit to dump waste 230 miles off their coast?

4 - Why did Pensacola, Fla. win a case against DuPont for dumping waste 230 miles off their coast line?

It certainly does not make sense that the State of Mississippi would allow 2,142,000 gallons of waste per day to be dumped into the small area of the Bay of St. Louis when Louisiana and Texas would not let them dump 230 miles off their coast and Pensacola, Fla. rescinded their permit and won a case disallowing them to dump waste 230 miles off their coast line.

I feel it is the committee's duty to inform the public of what they have investigated and found.

Sincerely,

G. S. Kennedy, Jr.

Dear Editor:

In reference to the letter from Mrs. Alphonse two weeks ago I would like to help educate the lady to some of the facts which I think she may like to know. Maybe next time she writes about our beautiful little town of "hole-in-the-wall" she will be a little more up on her statement.

First, we are not a town trying to be like California, but she has a good idea - we must try.

Second, she states sewage. Oh, yes!! We do have to take the credit for that amount of progress, holes and all, but if she will wait a short time more I am sure she will see the accomplishment.

Third, The Beach - Yes, thank God for such a beautiful site. I am so thankful for those people who live here to be the recipients.

Fourth, The airport and port and harbor - I am afraid we will have to give the credit of these to our Hancock County Fathers. That's their babies.

And "schools", not yet. We have to give that "headache" to Bay St. Louis. They run the school business. We have nothing to do with that. But not for long we hope.

And the Park - Well now, it is going to be one of our largest assets. Even if it is funded by and is a Mississippi State Park. We are proud the state chose Waveland to be its home.

As for our politicians - they didn't vote a raise for themselves but they did vote a raise for their City Employees. Hurrah!!

Now to the hunting licenses and hunting laws. I am afraid that is another thing Waveland can't take credit for because those laws are made by this state. You do not pay the City of Waveland for privileges to hunt or fish. You may fish off the beach or anywhere in salt water without a license. But I do know that Waveland's law enforcement officers do try to do their best to uphold the law. Please, if you see someone breaking the law do try to call them immediately.

As for the Real Estate people, I suggest you write our Congressmen or State Representative and you may get some results. I am not qualified to comment on that. And no comment on Mr. Ladner.

Dear Editor:

I would like to say a few things in reference to Mrs. Alphonse's letter of 2 weeks ago.

As far as children from six to 16-years-old having a hunting license and carrying a gun, this is a problem in every state in the Union. The State of Mississippi, along with most every other state in the U.S., is trying to remedy this problem by implementing Hunter Safety Programs. The Mississippi Game and Fish Commission, in a tremendous joint effort with the National Rifle Association, is doing a wonderful job of setting up a Hunter Safety Program in this state. They are making an extreme effort to train instructors to teach Hunter Safety.

Hunter Safety courses teach Conservation, Game Laws, Gun Safety, and even the history of firearms and conservation since the days of primitive man. The Game and Fish Commission has appropriated thousands of dollars to set up schools, obtain training aids for every instructor, and even to build rifle and pistol ranges. They have even gone as far as to obtain thousands of dollars of insurance to cover any student and qualified instructor on a range. In the near future it is going to be required by state law that before a young person obtains his first hunting license he must have attended and successfully completed a Hunter Safety Course. You can even help yourself.

next time you see a young boy (or girl) doing something dangerous with a gun, or shooting anything that moves, then stop that young boy or girl and offer them a good lecture on gun safety and game conservation. If you ever engage in a conversation about hunting or just shooting with anyone then do the same thing, give them a good lecture also. The sooner everyone starts to do this the sooner you will see results in the field. Spread the word and practice what you preach.

Every state requires people of age to buy a license to hunt and fish. I am assuming you are from Louisiana. If I go to Louisiana to hunt or fish I have to pay the same thing you do for an out of state hunting and fishing license. You shouldn't feel bad about buying a license because this money goes toward some phase of game conservation. Now you are probably asking how I know so much about this. Well, I have two brothers and a father and we are all qualified Hunter Safety Instructors and we spread the word, as much as possible.

Dear Sir:

Please print the correct wording of Abou Ben Adhem for Earl Lizana, 307 Carroll Ave. Bay St. Louis, Miss.

I am a stranger to your fair city, but I think James Hunt would turn over in his grave over the erroneous wording of his famous poem.

Yours truly,

Abou Ben Adhem

James Henry Leigh Hunt
(Born October 19, 1784; died August 28, 1859)

Abou Ben Adhem (may his tribe increase)

Awoke one night from a deep dream of peace.

And saw, within the moonlight in his room,

Making it rich, like a lily in bloom,
An Angel writing in a book of gold.

Exceeding peace had made Ben Adhem bold,

And to the Presence in the room he said,
"What writest thou?" The Vision raised

Grim reminder

A Mississippi State police investigator sifts through remains recovered at the scene where hunters found the body of Mary Ann Farve Sunday as Hancock County Sheriff Sylvan Ladner (middle) and chief deputy Lathan Garriga (right) watch. The hunters stumbled upon the skeletal remains of the young while hunting rabbits in the area. Mary Ann had been missing since April 22. Authorities said that she had been shot once in the head with a small calibre pistol.

Long Beach advertises employment openings

The Long Beach city council Tuesday voted unanimously to buy a one and a half ton truck from Bubba Oustalet Ford for $5,919 less an $800 trade-in for a total cost to the city of $5,119. The only other bidder was Bert Allen Pontiac which bid $5,635 less a $200 trade-in for a total cost of $5,435. The city also opened and took under advisement bids for supplies and a depository for the city funds. Action will be taken on the bids at Tuesday's recess meeting.

In other action, the board voted unanimously to grant in the best interest of public morals" a city ordinance exception to Mrs. Eran Maddux. Mrs. Maddux, who is bed-ridden and blind, had requested the exception which would allow her to move her mobile home to her property on Seventh Street so that she could be closer to her doctor who must visit her frequently. The temporary permit was protested at the meeting by two of the affected neighbors. The six other affected neighbors wrote letters favoring the exception.

The board also announced that applications are being accepted for four positions: policeman, fireman, radio dispatcher, and a maintenance man. To be eligible for the money made available under a Title IV federal public service grant, an applicant must be the head of the household and be unemployed or underemployed for thirty days.

The board also voted to raise the salary of Carol Wehunt, Senior Citizen's coordinator, to $210 per month and to accept "with regret" the resignation of school board member James H. Baker.

Road of no return

This dirt road leading into a heavily wooded area and dense underbrush leads to the area where the body of 16-year-old Mary Ann Farve was found by two rabbit hunters last Sunday. Posted and No Trespassing signs guard both sides of the entrance. Harrison County Sheriff Department authorities were engaged in sifting soil and combing the area for clues early this week. The girl disappeared from an area close to her home last April 22 and became the subject of an intense search until clues were exhausted.

Council buys park property

After several weeks of indecision, the mayor and city commissioners of Bay St. Louis decided to purchase approximately 40,000 square feet of property bounded by Julia and Dunbar Streets for use as a permanent city park.

The property, which measures 180 feet by 220 feet, was purchased by the city for $12,000 from Ed Larroux after the council unsuccessfully tried to purchase the property for $9,500.

Mayor Warren Carver said that the property had been appraised at $9,500, but that this did not include improvements on the property which included a building, and playground equipment already on the property and owned by the city. The city had formerly used the property in exchange for non-assessment of property tax.

"We just felt that this was the only spot down there suitable for a park of this type," Mayor Carver said in justification of the higher purchase price. "And the city had already put playground equipment on the property and made improvements, including basketball goals, fencing, swings, and so forth."

Carver said terms of how the money would be paid would be worked out later.

Reporting deadline for aliens

Troy A. Adams, Jr., District Director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service said today that aliens in the area have only a short time remaining in which to comply with the Federal law requiring that aliens report their addresses to the Government during January of each year.

The Immigration official urged all aliens with a few exceptions, to go as soon as possible to the nearest Post Office or Immigration and Naturalization Service Office to obtain the report form. After filling it out, place a postage stamp on the reverse of the card and drop it in any mail box.

Parents or guardians must file the report for alien children under 14 years of age.

Adams said the address report is required each year from all aliens except those in diplomatic status and representatives of certain international organizations.

Morse of Trinity Episcopal Church in Pass Christian. Proceeds from the cookie sale, which begins Feb. 1, will go toward the scout camp in Kana.

Girl Scout cookie sale begins Feb. 1

Every year it happens, a few weeks after New Year's, but always before Groundhog Day — yes, it's Girl Scout cookie time again. Beginning Feb. 1, the Girl Scouts of the Gulf Pines Council will be in the neighborhoods and the shopping centers along the Coast and throughout the 18 South Mississippi counties selling their cookies.

The cookies the Girl Scouts will be selling this year are butter shorties, mint, peanut butter, chocolate chip and nut, and assorted sandwich.

Profits from this sale go to the support of the Girl Scout Camp, Ili Kana, located north of Wiggins, Miss. Ili Kana contains 339 acres of pine land with cabins, tents, and primitive camping areas. A lake for canoeing and fishing, trails for hiking and horseback riding, and an archery range — Ili Kana has everything to accommodate all the troops in the council.

Tax exemptions are result of hard work retirees told

Homestead exemption from city, county and state taxes for persons 65 years and older granted this year for the first time was not obtained by wishful thinking, Albert Raguson, Chapter Legislative Chairman told members of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees at their luncheon meeting

Thursday, January 16, held at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Gulfport, Miss. It was the result of the combined efforts of the NARFE Association and other senior citizen's organizations in keeping our legislature advised of the needs of retirees and senior citizens living on fixed incomes, Raguson said.

We are constituents of two National Senators and one Representative of our Congressional District plus the State Senators and Representatives of our counties and districts, who must be kept informed of our needs and how we feel about pending legislation, he added.

Chairman told the group of attempts being made to secure legislation exempting the first $5,000 of Civil Service annuity from Federal Income Tax.

The group's next meeting will be held at 11:30 a.m. on February 20th at Newman's Seafood House on Cowan Road, Mississippi City.

Heinz recalls baby cereal

Heinz U.S.A., division of the H. J. Heinz Company, announced today that as a precaution it is voluntarily recalling all boxes of its instant dry baby cereal.

The company said it is taking this action because a thorough investigation indicated that small metal fragments found this week in two boxes of the cereal could have been introduced during the manufacturing process.

Products involved are Instant Rice Cereal, Instant Barley Cereal, Instant Oatmeal Cereal, Instant Mixed Cereal, and Instant High Protein Cereal. All are dry cereal products produced only at the company's Pittsburgh factory. No other Heinz baby food products are affected.

In announcing the recall, Raymond F. Good, president of Heinz U.S.A., said, "We are taking this action because we cannot ensure the quality of every box of our dry cereal now on the market. Although no injuries have been reported and the possibility of any injury occurring is slight, we believe consumer safety must be our paramount concern."

Immediate removal of all dry cereal from wholesale and retail distribution is underway. Consumers are asked to discard the contents of any boxes in their possession and mail the box tops, along with their return address, to: Heinz, P. O. Box 28, Pittsburgh, Pa. 15230 for full refund of the purchase price and the cost of postage.

Unrelated to the most recent occurrences was an earlier incident in which metal filings were found by two consumers in Charlotte, N.C. This involved Instant Rice Cereal and was later traced to metal filings dropped into an empty pre-filling tank by a workman during a routine repair job. The filings apparently fell under the baffle at the tank discharge and were later swept out with the initial flow of cereal when the tank was filled.

The company has cooperated with the Food and Drug Administration throughout the investigation and has informed the agency of this recall action.

Heinz manufactures 250,000 cases of dry baby cereal annually. The company estimates that the cost of the recall will be approximately $250,000.

Company officials pointed out that the dry cereal facility in Pittsburgh is in a separate building from all other manufacturing operations.

All manufacture and distribution of dry cereals have been halted and the company is redesigning the protective systems in its manufacturing process. Production will resume in a few weeks.

In China, it's believed the dog kennel plant will bring good luck to its possessor.

Economic lecturer predicts local growth

by Anita Dinwiddie

Economic conditions in Hancock County for 1975 may not be as bad as one might expect. This forecast was the message to local businessmen at the Chamber of Commerce meeting last Thursday in a presentation by C. H. Anderson of the Mississippi Research and Development Center.

Anderson presented statistical evidence which showed Mississippi, and particularly the Gulf Coast, to be ahead of the country as a whole in many areas of economic growth. For instance, forecasts for 1975 show a 4 percent increase in Mississippi's Gross Product while the nation as a whole stood in the minus column. Mississippi also fared better in other areas, showing a lower unemployment figure and a lower rate of inflation.

"We have an outstanding growth potential here in Hancock County," said Anderson. "This area from Panama City, Florida, to Houston, Texas, has the third largest growth potential of any other area in the nation. And Hancock County is right in the middle of it."

The speaker urged the county leaders to encourage industries to locate on the Gulf Coast in view of the potential payroll and not so much in regard to the initial revenue from land purchase.

"I would say to practically give the land away if necessary," he said. "And don't worry about where the plant is going to be located so long as your people will work there and bring their money back home to spend it."

The relatively low figures of the sale of merchandise in Hancock County was a topic of discussion among the businessmen. Anderson pointed out that Hancock County did not offer the availability of goods that other neighboring areas did, and that the residents are forced to go to other places like Gulfport and New Orleans for many necessary items. A member of the audience also mentioned that much of the population of Hancock County resides in the County for only part of the year and tends to spend their money elsewhere. The new shopping center in Waveland will be a good test of whether Hancock residents will spend their money at home when the goods are available, Anderson said.

"One thing we must be cautious of," the speaker said, "is that 40 percent of the money earned on the coast is from the federal government. We can't depend on that federal dollar to keep coming in, so we must develop other businesses in the county."

Anderson spoke in general about other economic issues affecting the entire nation such as the inflation-recession situation. He noted that the proposed tax rebate might not be as generous a gift as many think.

"There is no Santa Claus. So what if they give me back $100 from my income tax if all my other expenses are going up, and it's my money that they are giving back to me," he said.

He observed that the hardest hit in this economic situation are the people on a fixed income such as social security. Anderson said that he could foresee a need in the future for a massive revision of social security because of the ever growing number of people collecting and a reduction in the number of contributors. He showed that from the early years of the program, when there were six contributors to every one person withdrawing, the ratio has declined so that by 1980 there will be two persons withdrawing for every one contributor.

"The declining birth rate means even fewer contributors in the future while more people are drawing out for longer periods because people are living longer," he explained.

The outlook for the future is probably growing inflation at a rate of 10 percent or more, Anderson said. However, he emphasized that inflation, though not pleasant, is probably easier to cope with than high rates of unemployment.

"I hardly see how it is possible to spend $60 billion a year without fueling inflation," he said. "I think inflation will be a way of life, but it is better to have a job and worry about inflation than not to have any income at all."

In spite of the promise of more inflation ahead, Anderson stressed a positive attitude as the necessary ingredient for success particularly for the Gulf South.

"The economics of a country is an operation of confidence," he said. "I want to see the nation get back on a positive key with some aggressive action. I don't like to be around people who complain about recession."

Vandals hit area stores

Several Bay St. Louis and Waveland merchants as well as local residents were vandalized last Saturday night by unknown pranksters. The damage consisted mainly of broken windows caused by vandals firing slingshots or pellet guns, but included severed hoisting ropes for the American flags at the Bay City Mall and Our Lady's Academy.

Merchant's Bank, Mississippi Power Company,

De Montuzin's Drugs, Bobby Ann Bakery and Magic Mart Store were Bay St. Louis businesses damaged by the vandals. Three homes similarly suffered broken glass as well as some stores in the new Our Shopping Center in Waveland.

Bay St. Louis Police Chief William Carbonette said at present there were no leads in any of the incidents. There were no witnesses to any of the acts.

"Of course, when something like this happens everyone naturally suspects kids," said Chief Carbonette, "but so far we have no idea who did it."

People once thought that holding a lion's ear to a deaf ear would restore hearing.

Performance Tested Boar Sale Date Set

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Mississippi pork producers who are looking for top quality breeding stock should mark Jan. 23 on their calendar.

That's the date of the annual Performance Tested Boar Sale at Mississippi State University, announced James Shannon, livestock specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. The sale begins at 1 p.m. at the Animal Service Building.

"The sale will feature 28 registered boars of the Duroc, Yorkshire, Hampshire and Spot breeds," added Shannon. "All of the boars have been tested and records are available giving their average daily gain, feed efficiency, carcass information on their littermates, and all have passed health certification requirements," he pointed out.

Shannon explained that the boars come from the top purebred herds in the state. Performance tests were conducted under the supervision of the Animal Science Department of Mississippi State University.

"We need to upgrade the quality of our breeding stock on hog farms in Mississippi, and this sale would be a good place for any producer to buy a high quality boar," emphasized Shannon.

Nereids royal couple

David Johnson, King Nereus IX, and Queen Doris IX led the Krewe of Nereids through a Roaring 20's tableaux at the ninth annual Ball Masque Saturday, Jan. 18 at St. Joseph Memorial Hall.

Nereids recreate Roaring 20's

The Krewe of Nereids recalled "The Jazz Age" of the Roaring 20's and the Terrible 30's at its ninth annual Ball Masque Saturday night at St. Joseph's Memorial Hall. David Johnson reigned as King Nereus IX.

Queen Doris IX, whose identity is kept a secret, and her maids were presented as the beautiful "Ziegfeld Girls". The Queen's gown was a reproduction of the gowns of the 20's. It was an empire design of sheer silver cloth with encrusted rhinestones and gold beaded fringe. Her collar was white plumes and her crown was decorated with large stones with white plumes.

The dukes to King Nereus IX were Raymond E. Kidd, Jr., Robert L. Stroud, Andrew B. Barrett, Donald W. Diboll, Frederick J. Peterman and Richard D. Warman.

The Royal Court of 1974, King T.D. Ashman and his Queen carried out the theme of "The Enchanted Toy Shop".

The Captain of Nereids, who produces and directs the ball, portrayed the owner of the Club New Yorker. Her costume was a silver sheer cloth outlined in silver thread and embellished with rhinestones. She also wore a full ruffle cape with silver thread and a headpiece of double tiers and white Boa. The Tableaux recalled the scene of a local speakeasy, the Club New Yorker. The krewe portrayed couples out on the town, waiters, entertainers such as the "Fanny Flappers", The Dimple Sisters, Movie Stars such as W.C. Fields, Clara Bow, Rudolph Valentino and Charlie Chaplin, and sailors, gangsters and the police.

Officers of the Nereids krewe gown in Royal Blue Evening Coats trimmed in large white fur collars and cuff presented the 1975 Dukes. William Power was presented as the 1975 Parade Marshal.

The Ballroom was decorated in silver, blue and white. Mirror Balls, Silver Chandeliers and Crystal and Blue reflected Starburst hung from the ceiling and on the side wall of the balcony. The stage was decorated with water fountains, blue and silver, eyelash drapes and curved stairways on either side of the throne.

Music was furnished by Harry Morel's Orchestra and Norris V. Fitzmorris was narrator. Special dance effects and choreography were produced by Doug Douglas. Carter Church of New Orleans designed the costumes and Edward Scanlon, also of New Orleans designed the set.

Grand Marshal Eric Tracey will lead the Ninth Annual parade through Waveland Feb. 2.

Rev. Michael Tracey, associate pastor Our Lady of the Gulf Church, performed the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin and peau de soie Empire style gown. Her veil of illusion edged with lace fell from a headpiece fashioned of lace and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white and yellow sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Miss Donna R. Clark was her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Sheryl Clark, sister-in-law of the bride and Cindi Tausin, both of Bay St. Louis; and Mary and Cecy Veglia, Long Beach, sisters of the groom. Tammy Miller, Bay St. Louis, served as flower girl.

They wore green velveteen empire dresses trimmed in beige lace and carried nosegays of yellow roses, yellow daisies and baby's breath.

Ronnie Maurigi attended the groom as best man. Groomsmen were Lou Erwin, Glen Boudreaux and Dallas A. Clark, III brother of the bride, all of Bay St. Louis, and Tony Gagliano, New Orleans, brother-in-law of the groom. Usher was Steve Scott, Pass Christian.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Waveland American Legion Home. Arrangements of gladiolas, mums and candelabra decorated the reception hall.

Tea girls were Tammy Bourgeois and Lisa Ladner. Mary Catherine Ladner served the cake.

The mother of the bride received guests wearing a floor length double knit pink empire style gown and the mother of the groom chose a beige dress. Both mothers wore white rose corsages.

For her wedding trip to New Orleans, the bride wore a green pants suit with matching floral print blouse and a corsage of white roses.

Coast Episcopal Players

Coast Episcopal enters convention

The drama class at Coast Episcopal High School performed "Taming of the Shrew" by Shakespeare at the first annual Mississippi State Drama Convention Friday, Jan. 10 and Saturday, Jan. 11 at the Gulfport Little Theater. Coast Episcopal was only one of several high schools who participated in the convention, including St. John's, the host for the weekend, and Harrison Central, performing "Song of Louise, in the Morning" by Patricia Doudry. The Biloxi Little Theatre performed

"Spoon River Anthology" by Edgar Lee Masters, and the Perkinson Players presented "Alice in Wonderland." Some noted speakers at the Convention were James Best, Actor in Residence, at the University of Mississippi, who spoke on "Reflections of an Actor", Buddy and Rita Sheffield, who performed "Much Ado about Nothing" by William Shakespeare, and Larry Mullican of the University of Southern Mississippi Theatre Department. The highlight of the convention was the lecture, "Movement for the Actor" by Ron Foreman, senior at USM, who demonstrated techniques of pantomime. Foreman said that only a few schools for mimes are in existence, and that an initial step in becoming a mime would be the instruction in ballet pantomime techniques. Coast Episcopal's drama class hopes to attend the District South Festival at the University of Southern Mississippi on January 24 and 25.

Make-up preparations

Helen Clower of Gulfport makes up Joe Dousson of Bay St. Louis for his role of the father in The Taming of the Shrew performed by Coast Episcopal at the Mississippi State Drama Convention.

Bay girl in first organ class

POPLARVILLE - The oldest of the keyboard instruments, the organ, has come to PRC.

Topsy Stieff, a Bay St. Louis sophomore, PRC's first organ student spends hours practicing each day on the Baldwin electronic located in Moody Hall.

This organ has two manuals with 61 notes each and a full pedalboard with 32 notes.

The two manuals and full pedalboard, a standard console arrangement, will enable students to transfer easily to other organs as the opportunity or need may arise.

"Learning the technique of maneuvering hands and feet in opposite directions, though a bit confusing at times, can lead to rewarding experience once mastered," Miss Stieff said.

Mrs. Mowetha Williams, PRC's organ instructor, attended Brenau College in Gainesville, Georgia, and graduated from Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge. She also attended Berkshire Center in Lenox, Massachusetts, and has done graduate work at the University of Southern Mississippi.

CHUCK GENIN (23) tries for two over Robin Malley in Monday night's St. Stanislaus-Pass High clash.

Rocks roll past Pass 78-73

By David Pierson

Monday night was a bad night for the Pass High Pirates who, playing on their homecourt, lost both ends of a basketball doubleheader. In the opener the Pass girls fell to the Long Beach Bearkittens 51-40; and, in the boys game that followed, St. Stanislaus preserved its unblemished record by beating the Pirates 78-73.

Robert Smith of St. Stanislaus led all scorers with 25 points, and Robin Malley led the Pirates with 23. Six other players also scored in the double figures.

After a first quarter where the lead exchanged hands several times, the Pirates took charge and built up a 30-24 lead. The Rocks responded by calling timeout, a timeout which St. Stanislaus Coach Bob Cuccaro later described as the turning point of the game. "We began to improve after that timeout. We were trying to pass long and shoot from outside. That had to change."

The change in strategy worked. The Rocks penetrated the Pirate defense and cut the lead to 38-36 at the half. Less than three minutes into the third quarter, the Rocks pulled ahead 41-40. By the end of the quarter, St. Stanislaus had extended its lead to 59-55. The Pirates never closed the gap.

Leading by three points with four minutes left in the game, the Rocks slowed down its attack. "We didn't freeze the ball," Cuccaro said afterwards. "We were trying to spread the floor, open up the defense for Smith or (Chuck) Genin to move in."

Pass was forced to foul, but St. Stanislaus kept hitting from the foul line.

Finally with six seconds left in the game and trailing 76-73, Pass got its last chance when St. Stanislaus threw the ball away. But Henry Malley was called for walking while trying to inbound the ball. Bud Lang added two free throws to make the final score 78-73.

"We played with pride," said Cuccaro following the game. "This is our first year in the conference, and we want very much to be undefeated (in conference)." St. Stanislaus is now 14-3 on the year, and Pass High's season record fell to 12-5.

The winning coach praised his team's second half efforts. "We played good in the pressure situations. Our shooting was strong. Robert Smith gave an excellent second half."

Cuccaro also had praise for Pass High's Robin Malley who led the Pirate scoring attack with 23 points. "He's the best rebounder we've faced this year, probably the best on the coast."

In the girls game, Cathy Pierocich of Long Beach paced the Bearkitten attack with 23 points, and Debbie Boyd's defensive show in the second quarter rattled the Pirates as Long Beach rolled up a 27-14 halftime lead. The teams played even the rest of the way, and Long Beach won easily 51-40.

Long Beach is now 10-12 on the year, and the Pirates are 14-5.

BUD LANG (20) scores a clutch fourth quarter field goal for St. Stanislaus in Tuesday night's 78-73 win over the Pass High Pirates.

BRUCE BROWN (44) of the Pirates and Bud Lang (20) of the Rocks stretch for a fourth quarter rebound.

Carey College to honor athletes

Bay St. Louis area alumni who were former athletes at William Carey College will be honored February 7th.

According to head basketball and baseball coach, John Stephenson, all former athletes will be involved in an Old-Timers basketball game at 7 p.m. in Clinton Gym and a baseball game the following morning at 9.

Following the basketball game, the Student Government Association will honor all former athletes at a Coffeehouse in Wilkes Dining Hall. Each athlete will be presented separately.

The derailment of a train Anstey put that section in commission as far as fishing went. That condition has been remedied.

Catching speckles on Highway bridge and Raccoon bridge continues according to Cotton Blaise who goes there most every day. "I can't get them by myself," he claims.

Duck and Goose closed in Mississippi on 20. This year this hunting wasn't too good according to those going there. The reason was that we had too much winter.

Bay Invitational Tournament boasts action

Bay High Coach Mike Necaise will be the host coach for the Bay High School Invitational Tournament this week Jan. 22-25. Eight girls' teams and seven boys' teams will compete for the winner's trophy. The Tigers under Necaise will meet their first opponent, Hancock North Central School, Thursday night at 8:45 p.m.

Over the weekend the weather wasn't too good for fishing. It was too cold and the water most everywhere was on the muddy side with Pearl River out of its banks at Jackson and that high and dirty water coming down our way.

The derailment of a train at Ansley put that section out of commission as far as fishing went. That condition has been remedied.

Catching speckles on the Highway bridge and Railroad bridge continues according to Cotton Blaize who goes after them most every day. You can't get them by staying home, he claims.

Duck and Goose hunting closed in Mississippi on Jan. 20. This year this type of hunting wasn't too hot according to those going after them. The reason we think was that we had too mild a winter.

Of course the quail season still has some time to go. According to those hunting quail they are not doing too bad with the prized birds. Of course a good dog is the difference.

The Woodcock and Snipe seasons are open until Feb. 16. Statewide. Talking to hunters, they say quite a number of these birds are being killed. They are good eating, too.

Spent the past weekend in Baton Rouge with my son, Luke, and his wife, Sue. Didn't do any fishing, it was too cold, anyhow.

Glad to report that Alden Mauffray is doing okay after his recent operation. Will be out soon. This is bad news for the fish. He will be after them as usual.

Doc Emile Bertucci has been spending a little more time at Tidewater. Enjoyed a day spent with him, catching bass and perch from the Lagoon. Doc is one our best fly fishermen. A real sport in general.

The waters around the Pipe Line Canal, Inner Campbell and Pearl River are bad at this time due to the rise in the river. Should clear up in the near future, we hope.

Went fishing Saturday with my son Luke and Ray Garner. Wound up in Colly's Pond. Believe it or not, returned home with two bass. That's bad.

More and more people are eating nutria when stewed or barbecued. When prepared properly, it is not bad eating. Tastes like rabbit or other game.

Definition of a fisherman: A pain to his wife. Accused of being a liar. A liberal spender for tackle, boats, trailer, etc. But most fishermen are good guys. The good Lord gave us water and put fish in it. Why not catch them? They help out on the family budget, too.

The worthy boy says, "That's my Dad". How could he be a fisherman or hunter unless taught by his dad? Take your boy with you. Boys don't do anything bad when hunting or fishing.

Fresh water cat fish are delicious eating when fried or broiled. To clean them, it is best to cut off their pointed fins with a pair of wire cutters, slit down the back and pull the skin off with a pair of pliers. Put the meat in corn meal seasoned with black pepper, then fry in deep fat. To boil, rub the meat with a little salt and black pepper and butter. That's it.

The Bay High School Invitational Tournament, which began Wednesday night with the Long Beach Bearcats battling the Stone County Tomcats in boys action, promises to hold a lot of action before it's all over Saturday night.

The tournament which has drawn eight girls' and seven boys' teams promises to develop into a real battle for the individual crowns if each team plays up to its early season potential.

In tonight's opening game in boys' action, the St. Stanislaus Rockchaws will square off again for the second time in a week with the Pass Christian Pirates, a team the Rocks beat Monday night at Pass 78-73. Stanislaus Coach Bob Cuccaro called it the highlight of his Rocks first season in the Pascagoula River Conference. The Rocks now boast a 15-3 record overall after another win over D'Iberville Tuesday night 83-65 and are undefeated in conference play.

In the second game Thursday night, the Bay High Tigers, 9-8 overall after two wins and one loss this week, will entertain Hancock North Central Hawks of Coach Roland Ladner. The Tigers, a dark horse in the tournament, have scoring ability as evidenced in their 72-56 win over Pearl River Central last Thursday and their 74-71 win over Poplarville Monday, but lack size and depth. The Tigers' scoring ace, Allison Farve, had a season high 42 points Monday night against the Poplarville Hornets who were outplayed from the start of the game.

In the girls' action tonight, Harrison Central will meet Andrew Jackson High School of Chalmette, La. in the 5 p.m. opener followed by Pass Christian versus the Long

VFW sponsors "Lite-a-bike"

The annual "Lite-a-Bike" program, sponsored jointly by Cecil R. Ruddock and VFW Post and Auxiliary 5991, is scheduled for Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon.

This is a public service safety program geared toward small children, but older cyclists are also urged to take advantage of this opportunity.

Reflective tape will be placed on bicycles at six taping stations manned by post and auxiliary members. The stations are as follows: in front of the VFW Post Home, 401 Scenic Drive; Camille Village Recreation Building; Isles Exxon Service Station; Pass Christian Isles; Pass Christian Fire Station; the Gulf National Bank parking lot; and the Delisle Elementary School grounds.

Harrison Central brings the best boys' record into the tournament at 18-3. The only team in the tournament to previously beat the Red Rebels is Hancock N. Central. The Hawks record is 11-8.

Admission to the tournament will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Donald Lott pumps in two in the Tigers' game against Pearl River Central last Thursday night.
